Hunters Take Advantage of Fine Weather to Do a "Dan Boone" Sunday.

With ideal weather scores of local nimrods spent Sunday down the valley shooting quail. The hirds have been very pientiful this season but since the season opened November 1 there have been hundreds slaughtered and the game birds are becoming more scarce. The season will close February 1.

The open season for wild turkeys will open December 1, and will continue for four months. It is unlawful under the game laws of Texas to kill more than three turkeys during this period. Hunters who have been in the mountains of western Texas during the past several weeks report wild turkeys plentiful but they are hard to shoot.

The wild iurkey season crened November 1 in New Mexico and will continue until January 15. Many El Paso hunters have been hunting wild turkeys in the mountain ranges of the border state during recent weeks.

"MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY."

"Indulgent parents are the cause of so much criminal instinct being developed in children." said Dr. A. S. Orne, a Juvenile worker, who spoke Sunday aftermon at the courthouse.

"Parents are too tolerant," said Dr. Orne. "They allow the children to control themselves instead of controling them. Weak willed parents are to blame for the greater part of the crime that exists in this country. Some children are born with criminal instinct and no amount of training will free them from their inborn nature.

"Parents allow children to go as they picase, roam the street at night, and then wonder why the boys end in the penitentiaries.
